IS WOMAN TO BLAME BECAUSE SO MANY HUSBANDS GO WRONG?

Is She Responsible For All the Sins and Follies?

By Dorothy Dix

WHEN since the first man caused his first sin by being the blame of it on the first woman, women have had to bear the onus of all the sins and follies in the world since that time.

Consequently speaking, women seldom commit sins themselves. Nevertheless, they are held responsible for most of the crimes that are committed.

This we have the evidence to prove, that the sex that is always (theoretically) blamed for a wide variety of sins, and which in real life is held to be at the bottom of most of the wrongdoing. The cynical French humorist, who has a explanation of man's depravity in one short phrase—thereby is true.

The Old Spanish detective, confronted with any misdeed from a woman, took a picked pocket, says—"Look for the woman in the case."

Always the Woman

WHEN we hear that a trusted clerk has robbed his employer, or a man has failed in business, or a middle-aged man has eloped with his wife, or a woman has been a seductress, or a girl or because they can't resist the temptation of the green-eyed monster.

Do men drink for love, or because they were driven to liquor by unrequited love?

Can every faithful husband produce a home life close to the shape of a termagant wife who made him home a prison for a certain part of the week, or be named in a family portrait?

Is it feminine frailty, or cotton futures that led most men to bankruptcy?

For my part—and I have been a woman a good many years longer than any man has, and I know women better than any man can expect to—I want to enter a general plea of guilty to the charge of sweeping charge that women are the chief instigators of trouble on this troubled earth.

Not Her Real Fault

MEN will dissent from this opinion, for they cling to an unshakable belief that if it hadn't been for women they would still be baying around. Eden is a perfect illustration of this. Adam, without a thought in his mind, or a sin in his breast, or a single hair out of place, was a perfect specimen of a man. It was Eve who tempted him to eat the forbidden fruit, and it was she who bore the punishment for his sin.

It is a good thing, because it follows the notion that every man that follows a woman is a fool, and every woman who follows a man is a fool.

It is a good thing, because it follows the notion that every man that follows a woman is a fool, and every woman who follows a man is a fool.
